

Magnolia Car Show

Posted by Domesticus - 14 Sep 2012 13:17

My husband took some fantastic pictures at this year's Magnolia Car Show, and I am posting them on my blog starting today.

Today's shots include a 1956 Ford Fairlane Town Sedan, a 1949 Buick Roadmaster, and an incredibly elegant 1941 Plymouth Special Deluxe.

Then all next week starting Monday, Sept. 17, I will be posting pictures of classic cars of the '50s, '40s, '30s, '20s, and '60s through the 2000s.

Last year I just put up one post with a few photos from the car show and got a lot of interest from the classic car community, so this year I have more. I was never really interested in cars before, but these grande dames have gotten under my skin.

Here's the link to the photos:

=====

Re: Magnolia Car Show

Posted by Rasputin112 - 17 Sep 2012 03:49

I bet your husband say some pretty cool stuff over there. Have you been to the car show too ? I bet you took some nice pics!

=====

Re: Magnolia Car Show

Posted by Domesticus - 17 Sep 2012 11:41

I did, Rasputin, and my husband took some great shots. You can find them on Domesticus.com. I will be posting a different set every day this week. Today is fabulous fifties cars.

=====

Re: Magnolia Car Show

Posted by Ihavenoname Butilovecar - 18 Sep 2012 08:50

Wow, those are sweet! I wish I were in your place, Domesticus. I rarely have the chance to go see car shows, I haven't seen one in years.

=====

Re: Magnolia Car Show

Posted by Domesticus - 18 Sep 2012 11:42

So sorry you can't go! They are fun, although it would be a hassle to get to a major show and find parking, at least around here. We are able to walk to this one.

Today's post on Domesticus: Fabulous cars of the 40s.

=====

Re: Magnolia Car Show

Posted by CharlieCorvette - 13 Nov 2017 12:14

Photos in this Chevy Truck article are of my baby. 1956 Chevy Apache truck. Took me 3 years to complete the restoration. PM me if you would like some of the restoration photos.

=====